MEMORANDUM TO: Deputy Director (Support)

FROM: * CIA Emergency Planning Officer

SUBJECT: * Study and Recommendations Concerning Emergency Relocation Planning

1. Transmitted herewith is a study which I have prepared on the subject of emergency relocation planning in general. This is based in part upon observations made during the past two years and in part upon the lessons learned from Operation Alert 1955 and the comments and critiques which it precipitated, both from within the various components of the Central Intelligence Agency and from outside sources, including the Cabinet Papers, the National Security Council Staff Report, the Inspection Report, and the documents and observations of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

2. It is designed to be responsive to your request of 5 July 1955 for a report on what we should be doing as a result of lessons learned during Operation Alert 1955. Its recommendations, however, go beyond the scope of the exercise and include things of which we have been aware for quite some time but the discussion of which is timely now, in the light of the interest provoked throughout the Agency by the exercise.
